Turkey determined to purchase gas from Iran

TEHRAN - Turkey will abide by its undertakings to carry out the contract for the purchase of gas from Iran, announced Managing Director of the Turkish Oil and Gas Pipelines.

Nevzat Erseven told 'Dunya' newspaper that with the completion of the Iran-Turkey gas pipeline, U.S. sanction in this connection will be probably lifted. Otherwise, he stated, Iran will transfer the Turkmen gas to Turkey through some pipelines, IRNA reported from Ankara.

Dunya further quoted Erseven as saying that providing guarantees in similar contracts is inevitable, adding that Iran would spend millions of dollars on laying down the pipeline. Therefore, if Turkey refused to buy the gas, Iran was authorized to call for compensation.

President Khatami:

Region in need of security, stability

TEHRAN - President Mohammad Khatami, here on Saturday stated "friendship and close ties between Iran and Pakistan, besides being in the interest of the two countries, helps the independence and security of the whole region."

Receiving the new Pakistani Ambassador in Tehran, Javed Hussein, Khatami added "the parties who benefit from instability in the region do not favor close relations between Iran and Pakistan."

Expressing satisfaction over the state of relations between the two countries, Khatami further stressed that the strong resolve on part of the two countries' leaderships would be a guarantor of the continuation and further consolidation of the relations, IRNA reported.

The Pakistani ambassador who was presenting his credentials to the president, termed Iran-Pakistan relations as satisfactory, adding "Pakistan and Iran, relying on common culture and similar stances towards important regional issues, can play a significant role in achieving peace and stability in the region and the world."

He further predicted that the upcoming summit of the Organization of Islamic Conference in Tehran would have a positive impact on Iran-Pakistan relations as well as peace and stability in the region.

In another development, new Omani Ambassador to Tehran Abdullah bin Salim Abdullah al-Shanfari submitted his credentials to President Khatami.

President Khatami said relations between Tehran and Muscat are excellent and the two countries have always developed relations on the basis of mutual respect.

He said the region is in need of security and stability and friendly relations among the regional states, which would serve this end.

Experts call for elimination of laws impeding exports

TEHRAN - The Director General of the Export Promotion Department of Iran's Ministry of Industries, Ahmad Qasemi, here on Saturday stated that rejuvenating the export sector in the country depends on simplification of export laws and elimination of commitments forced on exporters. Addressing a conference to discuss problems in the way of expanding exports, Qasemi added laws governing export revenues are preamble to administrative bureaucracy as well as difficulties stemming from it, IRNA reported.

He further referred to the facilities granted to carpet exporters who presently have control over 100 percent of the foreign exchange revenues as a result of their exports, adding that same facilities should be granted to exporters in other industries. According to the official, exports by manufacturing units affiliated to the ministry during the first half of the current Iranian calendar year (started March 21) amounted to Dls. 621 million, registering a 21 percent increase over similar period last year. Qasemi further added that out of 50,000 industrial units nationwide, some 3,000 are active in exports. Also speaking at the gathering was the Director General of Ministry of Agriculture's Commerce Department, Hosseini Erfani.

Another speaker, advisor to the Export Promotion Bank Mohammadi, enumerated creation of jobs, generating foreign exchange income and upgrading technical know-how as main objectives behind promotion of exports.

Exports of minerals fetched Dls. 35 million during the period, also showing 21.7 and 20.6 percent increases in terms of weight and value respectively compared to first half of last year.

Meanwhile, the ministers continued their meetings here Friday in the run-up to OIC's summit meet in Tehran, Iran, next month.

Among the topics on the agenda of OIC ministers here is the proposition of reclaiming cultural relics of Muslim countries now in the possession of other countries for which OIC has formed a special committee of experts.

Malaysian Minister of State for Religious Affairs Abdulhamid Othman has said that Muslim nations must repossess those relics which, he said, have a value beyond all estimations.

Meanwhile, Governor of the Islamic Development Bank of OIC Ahmed Mohammad Ali who is attending OIC's ministerial meet here said Friday that the bank has recently offered Dls. 150 million in support for Indonesia's national development projects in addition to another Dls. 150 for its business projects. Suriname, Mozambique and Tajikistan have recently joined the bank.

Iran, Kazakhstan disapprove unilateral measure in Caspian Sea

TEHRAN - Visiting Kazakh Deputy Foreign Minister Ern Edrisov in a meeting here Saturday with Iranian Foreign Minister Kamal Kharrazi exchanged view on Tehran-Almaty further bilateral cooperation.

At the meeting, Kharrazi referring to the Caspian Sea legal regime, stated "the Islamic Republic of Iran is of the idea that until the time that the legal status of the Caspian Sea has not been determined, no individual state of the five littoral republics has the right to injure the rights of others through its unilateral measure to exploit the resources of the Caspian Sea," IRNA reported.

The Kazakh Foreign Ministry official arrived here Saturday after concluding his visit to Moscow where he had exchanged views with the Russian officials on the legal regime of the Caspian Sea. He is also expected to visit Ashkhabad with an aim to exchange views with the Turkmen officials in the same regard.

Edrisov in his talks attached special importance to the Islamic Republic of Iran, pointing out that Tehran and Almaty have built firm relations to further promote their multilateral cooperation.

He said Kazakhstan believed that the Islamic Republic of Iran is the most suitable and secure route for transfer of oil and gas resources of the Caspian Sea.

The Kazakh official added that his country has decided to transfer its oil and gas through southern Iranian ports.

Referring to the OIC summit in Tehran in December Edrisov pointed out that top officials of his country would participate at the summit meet.

Edrisov suggested that Iran-Kazakhstan-Turkmenistan tri-lateral meeting of the heads of the countries be set up on the sidelines of the OIC session with an aim to review the issues of mutual interests.

Meanwhile, Iranian Deputy Foreign Minister for European Affairs Mortaza Sarmadi and his Kazakh counterpart

Edrisov here on Saturday voiced their opposition to any unilateral action by the Caspian Sea littoral states to exploit the resources of the sea.

Sarmadi said any unilateral action on the part of the Caspian states would further complicate the situation and recommended that deputy foreign ministers of the five Caspian states bordering the sea hold emergency meetings to reach a consensus in this respect.

He said bilateral and multilateral consultation among the Caspian Sea littoral states would serve to complete the legal status of the Caspian Sea, besides serving peace and security in the region. He expressed Iran's readiness to participate in launching technical studies, exploration and exploitation of Kazakh gas and oil and forwarding the products to the world markets.

The Kazakh deputy foreign minister said in the wake of the collapse of former Soviet Union, the Caspian Sea belongs to five littoral states, and therefore all issues concerning the sea should be settled unanimously. He said Kazakhstan is against unilateral action in exploiting the resources of the Caspian Sea.

Edrisov said the Islamic Republic of Iran has high potential in oil industry and Iranian territory is the shortest route for transport of oil and gas from Central Asia to the outside world.

The two officials exchanged views on bilateral relations and ways to develop cooperation between the two countries in oil and gas sector.

Global TV network to be launched

MASHHAD, Khorasan - An official at the Islamic Republic of Iran Broadcasting (IRIB) said here Saturday that IRIB's global TV network will be launched on November 13, marking the birth anniversary of Imam Ali (a.s.), the first Imam of the household of holy Prophet (peace be upon him).

Mohammad Pishgahi-Far told a gathering of Majlis deputies representing the northeastern Province of Khorasan, that the network will cover central Europe, northern Africa and Asia.

Pishgahi-Far further said that the global TV network will broadcast daily 12 hours of programs in Persian language and widely spoken languages.

Mohajerani:

Muslims should shape new Islamic civilization

TEHRAN - Culture and Islamic Guidance Minister Attaollah Mohajerani told a gathering of religious affairs ministers of the Organization of the Islamic Conference (OIC) in Jakarta on Friday that world Muslims should shape the new Islamic civilization by relying on its Islamic identity.

Pointing to the idea behind 'waqf' (endowment) in Islam, Mohajerani said that this is a key term in the Islamic culture, adding that in the era of the flourishing of the Islamic civilization, many universities, hospitals, libraries and grand Islamic centers are being financed through waqf, IRNA reported.

Meanwhile, the ministers continued their meetings here Friday in the run-up to OIC's summit meet in Tehran, Iran, next month.

Among the topics on the agenda of OIC ministers here is the proposition of reclaiming cultural relics of Muslim countries now in the possession of other countries for which OIC has formed a special committee of experts.

Oil prices 'to remain around 20 dbp'

TEHRAN - Further drops in temperature in the northern hemisphere along with continuing uncertainty over Iraq are expected to help prolong the current spell of healthy prices in both crude oil and refined products. The latest monthly report from the Royal Bank of Scotland suggests that crude prices look set to remain around the 20 dollars per barrel mark in the immediate future, despite the general perception that rates are too high based upon fundamentals, IRNA reported from London. Brent benchmark crude prices rose to over 20 dbp Thursday following the latest gamesmanship by Iraq and comes after rates peaked at 21.52 dbp due to tension over a number of minor incidents in the Middle East in early October. The Royal Bank warned that with falling stock levels following a similar path top last year, higher demand could cause supply problems in the event of another bad winter.
