Japanese trade delegation to visit Iran

TEHRAN - A Japanese daily 'Nihon Keizai Shimbun' wrote that Japan's Trade Union Confederation is to despatch a trade delegation to Tehran next week. The daily added that the delegation is to meet with officials from the ministries of industries and oil as well as Central Bank of Iran (CBI) during its four-day stay in Tehran. The delegation is to review Iran's economic situation since coming to office of President Mohammad Khatami, the daily said.

Iran is now meeting 10 percent of Japan's crude oil and it is regarded as a potential market for Japanese trade companies.

The Japanese investors have asked Japan's government to give insurance coverage to all Japanese businessmen and traders dealing with Iran, the daily said.

Leader urges Construction Jihad to expedite rural development

TEHRAN - Leader of the Islamic Revolution Ayatollah Ali Khamenei said on Monday the Construction Jihad Ministry has shouldered heavy responsibility in carrying out rural development programs.

In a meeting with the officials of the Construction Jihad Ministry, the Leader said the people living in the rural areas should be provided with every kind of facility that exist in the urban areas, IRNA reported.

The Leader said the people residing in the rural areas ensure production, livelihood of people and the survival of the country and urged the Construction Jihad Ministry to intensify its efforts to build roads and provide tapped drinking water for nearly 30 percent of the rural areas that are still deprived of such facilities.

Elsewhere in his address, the Leader pointed to the background of the Construction Jihad as a ministry established after the victory of the Islamic Revolution in 1979.

The Leader also recalled the sacrifices of the ministry's personnel in the Iraqi-imposed war era (1980-1988). The Construction Jihad was involved in building entrenchments on the frontlines.

Before the Leader's remarks, Minister of Construction Jihad Mohammad Saeedi Kia and the Leader's representative to the ministry Heidar-Zadeh felicitated the Leader on the auspicious occasion of the anniversary of victory of the Islamic Revolution and offered report on the performance of the ministry.

Iran intent on expanding role of cooperatives

TEHRAN - Iran's Minister of Cooperatives, Morteza Haji, here Sunday evening announced that 2,200 new cooperatives were registered during the first nine months of the current Iranian year (ends March 20), further adding that the number would surpass 2,660 by the year end.

Farming and consumers cooperatives account for 414 and 397 of the total, respectively, while 396 units were formed in industrial sector, 341 in services and 206 in housing. The balance are active in transportation and financial fields or function as multi-purpose entities.

Speaking to IRNA on the occasion of the cooperatives day in the 10-Day-Dawn, Haji added that Rls. 173 billion has been invested in the cooperatives which account for 35,311 employment opportunities and have 121,000 registered members.

Some 460 new cooperatives, expected to be inaugurated during the 10-Day-Dawn, would employ another 10,300 people, he added.

Prior to the victory of the 1979 Islamic Revolution, the number of cooperatives was shy of 6,000 while the number ballooned to 27,239 six years ago. There are presently 45,000 cooperatives active in the country, 4,500 of which are rural units.

Iran ready to assist Russia to send humanitarian aid to Iraq

TEHRAN - The Iranian embassy in Moscow in a statement announced that the Islamic Republic is ready to help Russia send relief aids to Iraq if the U.N. committee in charge of Iraqi sanctions allows dispatch of aid.

The statement denied a report by the Russian news agency 'Itar-Tass' quoting Russian diplomats in Tehran as having said that Iran had prevented flight of a Russian plane carrying humanitarian supplies to Iraq, IRNA reported from Moscow.

Following the announcement on dispatch of Russian aid to Iraq on Friday, Iran said that in principle it was ready to extend the necessary cooperation. However, due to the U.N. ban on flights to Iraq, Iran demanded a special U.N. permit, it added.

The Islamic Republic also asked its representative at the U.N. to do all within his power to secure the U.N. permit, the statement said.

The Iranian embassy in Moscow had informed the Russian authorities that the plane can pass through the Iranian air space once the U.N. committee authorizes the flight.

The Russian relief plane with 48 State Duma deputies on board had to land in Armenian republic due to failure to receive the permission to fly to Iraq.

Iran ready to expand ties with Bulgaria

TEHRAN - Visiting Bulgarian Vice-Speaker of Parliament Alexander Djurov submitted First Vice-President Hassan Habibi a message from the Bulgarian president for his Iranian counterpart Mohammad Khatami.

Habibi, referring to traditional and historical relations between Iran and Bulgaria, said that expansion of relations between Iran and the east and central European states is given priority by Tehran, IRNA reported.

He said that Iran will try to maintain cordial ties with many countries, including the European countries, based on equality and mutual interests.

He said that Iran has overcome many problems created by certain countries, especially the U.S., and proved in practice that such mischievous acts cannot harm Iranian officials' determination to pursue the aspirations of the Islamic Revolution.

According to surveys, cooperatives offer consumers some 26 percent savings as compared to market prices.

The Ministry of Cooperatives promotes public participation to form major regional cooperatives, Haji stated, adding that the ministry further aims to reduce government's role in the economic units.

Formation of 'cooperatives bank', currently under study by the government, should help the country's cooperative with their liquidity problems, the minister said.

Note three of the new year budget bill stipulates Rls. 6,000 billion worth of credit for cooperatives, 35 percent of which are allocated to government-run cooperatives while the private sector receives the remaining 65 percent.

The minister called for concentration of major decision making processes to form a uniform policy governing the activities of the country's various cooperatives.

"The Helms-Burton and D'Amato laws are doomed to failure," said Ruiz in a meeting with Vice-Speaker of Majlis Hassan Rowhani here on Monday.

He said that he is in Iran to remove certain obstacles impeding expansion of economic and trade ties between Tehran and Havana and to make efforts to broaden bilateral relations.

He congratulated Rowhani on the 19th triumph anniversary of Iran's Islamic Revolution and expressed hope that economic relations between Iran and Cuba would keep pace with their political ties.

He recalled Cuban nation's resistance to all-out pressures exerted by the U.S. and said "the great country" of Iran has always served as a powerful and strategic ally of the Cuban nation in its struggle with the global arrogance.

Rowhani for his part referred to friendly relations between Tehran and Havana in the post revolution era and said that Iran's Majlis is ready to further expand its ties with the country.

He underlined vehement opposition voiced by many countries to the Helms-Burton and D'Amato laws and said the U.S. has imposed economic sanctions against Iran and Cuba to prove its leadership of the world.

Rowhani, also secretary of the Supreme National Security Council, said the decision made by the U.S. to unilaterally attack Iraq is another case of Washington's vicious thoughts to dominate the world.

The Americans do not keep their words in relation to the implementation of the U.N. Security Council resolutions and fighting terrorism, Rowhani said.

Independence of Iran and Cuba, their confrontation with their common enemy and struggle for freedom and justice are among the most important commonalities of the Iranian and Cuban nations, said Rowhani.

Referring to coordination between Iranian and Cuban parliaments at international fora, Rowhani said that Iranian Majlis is ready to welcome high-ranking Cuban parliamentary delegations.

He added that exchange of expert delegations between Iran and Colombia would be effective in broadening scope of mutual cooperation and make the formerly reached agreements more practical.

Cooperation and exchange of expertise in the fields of natural resources, live stocks, fisheries and mutual investment in the economic sectors would guarantee mutual interests.

He said that Colombia can offer such items as animal products, coffee and sugar at the Iranian markets.

He added that exchange of expert delegations between Iran and Colombia would be effective in broadening scope of mutual cooperation and make the formerly reached agreements more practical.

At present there are political-professional groupings which function as parties, he said, adding that a number of such groupings have been registered and it is hoped that political parties will be formed in the future, he concluded.

Garaudy urges Muslims to boycott U.S., support Iraq

TEHRAN - The renowned French Muslim scholar Roger Garaudy has called on Arab and Muslim governments and peoples to use the weapon of economic, political, media and social boycott against the United States and Israel if Iraq was attacked by the U.S.

Speaking to Egyptian newspaper 'Al-Shab', Garaudy said the Jews were ruling in the United States and hence Washington cannot be a neutral umpire in the Arab-Israeli conflict, IRNA reported from Athens. Asked said the verdict of the trial he is facing in France is to be announced on 27 February in Paris and he would appeal the ruling if he was found guilty.

The 82-year old French intellectual is facing antisemitism charges.

Garaudy announced that his new book in French titled 'A vous de Juger' (you can judge) related with his trial is to be published soon.

Iran to hold two trade fairs in Tajikistan

TEHRAN - Iran is to hold two separate trade fairs in the cities of Dushanbe and Khojand in Tajikistan before March 20, 1998, the Tajik weekly 'Digest Press' announced in its latest issue.

The two cities of Tabriz in Iran and Khojand in Tajikistan have signed an agreement based on which the traders and producers of each side should display their products at joint fairs, IRNA reported.

The weekly wrote that Khojand's fair is to be held on the eve of Nowruz, marking the beginning of new Iranian year and later a permanent store would be set up there.

Tajik people are interested in consuming Iranian made products due to cultural bonds between the two Persian speaking nations.

U.N. special envoy:

Iran's role important in restoration of Tajik peace

TEHRAN - In a meeting with Iran's Foreign Minister Kamal Kharrazi, the United Nations special envoy on Tajikistan, Gerd Dietrich Merrem stated here Monday "the Islamic Republic of Iran should continue to cooperate in order to expedite the process of the restoration of peace in Tajikistan according to the accord reached in Moscow."

"Most of the provisions of the accord had been worked out in the Islamic Republic of Iran before the inkling of the final accord in Moscow and that the terms of agreement on the truce between the Tajik government and the opposition were also concluded here," pointed out the United Nations special envoy, quoted by IRNA.

Briefing the Iranian foreign minister on the latest developments in the Tajik peace process, Merrem said that the precise and swift enforcement of the terms of accord were the most vital responsibilities shouldered by the two parties.

The envoy then lauded Iran for its unceasing efforts in helping implement the clauses of Tajik reconciliation accord, terming Tehran's initiative in dispatching messages to the U.N. Secretary General, Kofi Annan and countries as sponsors of Tajik peace in trying to get the activities of peace commission reconvened useful and effective.

Kharrazi also stressed the need for accelerating the enforcement of the terms of accord reached between two parties, finally adding that the Islamic Republic of Iran is all set to concentrate its efforts along with the United Nations and other observer and sponsor countries in helping Tajikistan in the enforcement of peace process.

In an interview with IRNA, the United Nations special envoy on Tajikistan thanked the Islamic Republic of Iran for its effective role in helping the Tajik peace process.

He said though the peace treaty was signed in Moscow last June between the Tajik government and the opposition, its implementation has been deferred for sometime; however, through renewed confidence building and trust between the two parties, the way has been paved for the full implementation of the peace treaty.

He called the outcome of his talks with Iranian officials as "fruitful" and said the main goal behind his visit to Iran is to develop relations between Tehran and Sofia and pave the ground for further expansion of bilateral relations.

He said the observer nations to the Tajik peace process have made positive progress to help the Tajik peace process in addition to the initiatives taken by the Organization of the Islamic Conference (OIC).

Asked about the stages of the peace treaty, Merrem said first of all the detainees from both sides needed to be released, and registration to integrate the army with the opposition militia had to be initiated.

Participation of the opposition personalities in the coalition government and free activities of political parties have also been envisaged in the text of the peace treaty, he said.

He said the government has provided a list of the prisoners of war (POWs) to release the opposition in accordance with the stipulations of the peace accord.

The U.N. special envoy confirmed that the opposition deputy leader Akbar Turjanzadeh will be given the post of deputy prime minister in the coalition government and one third of the main government posts are to be handed over to the opposition.

He said that some breakthrough has been achieved in honoring the ceasefire, repatriation of Tajik refugees and the abrogation of legal charges against the opposition.

He expressed dismay at the slow pace of the Tajik peace process and said President Rahmanov and the Tajik opposition leader Abdullah Nouri have both admitted to the stalling of the implementation of the peace accord and that an understanding prevails over the two parties to accelerate the peace process.

On the prospects of the Tajik peace process, Merrem said President Rahamanov and opposition leader Abdullah Nouri are keen on establishment of the coalition government and he was very confident that the Tajik crisis would be defused in the very near future.

Millions of Iranians to take part in nationwide rallies

TEHRAN - Millions of Iranians throughout the country will once again demonstrate their resolute determination in safeguarding the Islamic Revolution by participating in the nationwide rallies today.

By turning out in massive numbers, the Iranians will both honor the victory of the 1979 Islamic Revolution and renew their allegiance to the Islamic values and ideals of the founder of the Islamic Republic.

As Iranians from all walks of life are preparing for the rallies, various organizations and institutes continued to announce their readiness to participate in the event.

Unprecedented enthusiasm expressed by residents of the capital city Tehran, especially the youth, will make the rallies one of the greatest events in Iran's post-revolution history.

The coordination council of the Islamic Propagation Organization on Monday announced that marches in Tehran will start from six points at 08:30 hours and will converge at Azadi (freedom) square.
