First daily for women to appear on newsstands soon

TEHRAN - The zero issue of the daily 'Zan' (woman) dealing with political, cultural, economic and athletic issues was published on Saturday. The license holder and managing director of the daily 'Zan', Faezeh Hashemi, said the first issue of the daily would appear on news stands on the first day of August. She said the goal behind publication of the daily is to improve women's political, family, economic and social status in the society.

President:

Iran advocates detente in foreign relations

TEHRAN - President Mohammad Khatami told outgoing French Ambassador to Tehran Jean Pierre Masset here Saturday that Iran advocates detente and consistently promotes the same policy in her relations with other nations.

He said no nation would benefit from tension, adding that peace would be dependent on mutual respect, IRNA reported.

The Iranian president said Iran can establish solid relations with France on the basis of mutual respect and in a manner that would be an example for Iran's relations with other countries.

The French ambassador recalled that his government has been opposed to the D'Amato law.

President:

Freedom, a divine right of human beings

TEHRAN - President Mohammad Khatami said here Saturday that the existing obstacles to the achievement of freedom and administration of justice should be removed.

Addressing the inaugural session of 17th meeting of heads of education departments in different parts of the country, the president said that a religion which respects man, first respects man's freedom, IRNA reported.

Stressing that freedom and law are indispensable, the chief executive stated that without law, society will be in a state of chaos.

There are a number of people in the society who are against freedom, he said adding that they are trying to pit the religion against freedom by manipulating people's feelings.

In a religious society, people naturally selects religion and if religion stands against freedom in that society, therefore freedom will be suppressed, he noted.

Freedom is a divine right of human beings, said President Khatami who is also head of Supreme Council for Cultural Revolution.

He called on people not to allow those with special tastes who consider themselves as symbols of the re-

He said French authorities are willing and ready to further broaden relations with Iran.

In another development in Paris, new French Foreign Minister Secretary-General Hennecin said on Saturday that time is ripe for development of Tehran-Paris relations.

In a meeting with visiting Iranian Deputy Foreign Minister for International and Legal Affairs Mohammad Javad Zarif, he said that his government which is fully aware of Iran's importance and its rich cultural background, is now ready to do its best to boost its relation with Iran.

The Iranian deputy foreign minister underlined the political will of the Iranian

Iran cuts crude output by 325,000 bpd

TEHRAN - To execute the recent OPEC resolution, Iran's crude oil exports decreased by 325,000 bpd in July with respect to the June figure, said Director of the International Affairs Department at National Iranian Oil Company (NIOC) Hojjatollah Ghanimifard told IRNA.

Ghanimifard said supply cuts are needed to further improve the market. This strategy recently prevented the prices from falling further, he added.

Should producers continue to observe the cuts to ensure market stability, one can be hopeful of higher prices for crude oil, Ghanimifard told IRNA.

For that reason, he said Iran will not increase its crude oil exports in August.

The NIOC director expressed show of remarkable patience by the NIOC clients and thanking their understanding for inconvenience caused by current market situation, said "325,000 cut is due to operational decision to adjust number of vessels to berth an amount of crude oil delivered."

Ghanimifard added, "this figure is 20,000 bpd more cut than the previously NIOC has announced."

Iran tests long-range missile

TEHRAN - Defense Minister Rear Admiral Ali Shamkhani Saturday said Iran has successfully tested a long-range missile, adding that the weapon has a range of 1,300 km.

The new missile has been developed through efforts of experts of the Iranian defense industries and without any foreign help, he told the Islamic Republic of Iran Broadcasting (IRIB).

He said that given the developments in the region and beyond it, the Islamic Republic of Iran had to take defensive measures to perpetuate peace.

Shamkhani stressed that the main objective in acquiring the weapon is to beef up Iran's self-defense capabilities. Meanwhile, two dailies Sunday welcoming Iran's long-range missile test, wrote that one of the basic principles of the Islamic Revolution is to be independent Commenting on the same subject, Iran News stated that the missile is designed for defensive purpose only, adding that Iran's relations with the neighboring states is so warm and cordial that these countries are not concerned with Iranian missiles, rather they consider it a weapon to defend their interests.

Therefore, increasing regional military strength becomes a necessity, the daily added.

Bulgarian minister:

Grounds prepared for promotion of Tehran-Sofia cooperation

TEHRAN - Bulgarian Minister of Trade and External Economic Relations Valentin Vasilov in a television interview, termed his recent visit to Tehran as fruitful.

There are plenty of grounds for mutual cooperation between the two countries, he said, adding that the Islamic Republic of Iran is a powerful industrial country which could be very

Iran's population growth rate stands at 1.2 pc

TEHRAN - Iran's population growth rate stands at 1.2 percent with the gross birth rate standing at 19 per 1,000, Statistics and Registration Administration announced on Saturday.

A report released by the office on the occasion of the world population day, said that 1,179,249 birth cases were reported last year, a figure which was 1,187,903 over the preceding year.

Italian minister arrives:

Iran, Italy to upgrade ties

TEHRAN - Deputy Foreign Minister of Iran for Europe and American Affairs Morteza Sarmadi said here Saturday that Iran and Italy are to cooperate in medium-size and small industries in addition to the previously big projects in steel and petrochemical industries.

During the meeting, the Leader praised the unique personality of the religious scholar, stressing that true seminaries should be set up throughout the country in which such great religious figures can emerge to serve as a source of reliance for the public, IRNA reported.

Lauding the late Akhund Hamedani's deep knowledge of religious issues as well as his mystical personality, Ayatollah Khamenei stated that Akhund Hamedani was among the senior religious jurisprudents in the country.

The Leader further expressed the hope that Mulla Akhund Hamedani, a prominent religious scholar who had settled in Hamedan, should set an example for other senior religious figures, although few in number, to settle in other major cities.

Ayatollah Khamenei lauded endeavors of organizers of the congress, calling on them to search for scientific works of the late scholar.

The Leader's remarks were read at the inaugural ceremony of the congress by Musavi, Leader's representative and Friday prayer leader of Hamedan, Saturday morning.

visit.

During his stay in Tehran, he is scheduled to meet with First Vice President Hassan Habibi, Minister of Mines and Metals Eshaq Jahangiri, and Minister of Energy Habibollah Bitaraf.

Two main hurdles to the development of Tehran-Rome relations namely construction of a gas power station in Bandar Abbas and a financial dispute over Italian-made helicopters 'Agusta' have been almost removed, Italy is to pay Drs 7.2 million to Iran in connection with the said helicopters and instead Iran will grant the construction of the 400 million dollar gas power station to Italy.

The two countries agreed to solve the above-mentioned problems during the last month's visit to Tehran of Italian Prime Minister Romano Prodi.

Meanwhile, Minister of Industries Gholamreza Shafei said Thursday that Italy's official insurance company for export has voiced its readiness to resume cover for Italian exports to Iran after years of suspension.

Back from a week-long visit to France and Italy, the minister said the insurance cover has been decided to be unlimited. He called the arrangement as an essential factor in furthering industrial and commercial cooperation between Iran and Italy.

Noting that the Iran's annual trade balances with Italy and France have been between 1.6 to 1.7 billion dollars positive for those countries apart from oil sale, he said during talks with officials of those countries, it was decided that they import industrial products from Iran to rectify the balance.

Shafei said in his talks with French officials, an agreement was reached on a Drs 10 million investment in a car manufacture line for a new French saloon car.

The Iranian minister said during his recent visit to Europe it was understood that the European Union has opted for a fresh and realistic stand in its relations with Iran and is disposed to have further cooperation with Iran.

tural circles including UNESCO which has always advocated this theory.

He said Iran's initiative in encouraging culture of book reading and publishing simplified text books in the fields of economy, health, technical and vocational training has been among reasons making the UNESCO jury to award Iran.

Jalali said it would be appropriate if on September 8, World Literacy Day, a ceremony is held in Iran to present the UNESCO plaque of honor to the Iranian officials.

During his brief stay in Paris, Zarif also met with the advisor to French President Jacques Chirac Friday.

Terminating Iran's role in the Persian Gulf and Middle East region as crucial, the French official called for promotion of ties with Iran.

He announced his country's interest in expanding ties with the Islamic Republic at regional and international levels.

He also expressed the hope that delegations will be exchanged between the two countries in future.

Tehran attaches great importance to its ties with Paris, Zarif said adding, nuclear threats and the need to establish a nuclear free world are issues of mutual interest for Iran and France.

Zarif added that Tehran and Paris can establish cooperation in exchange of scientific experiences in areas of anti-drug campaign and fighting terrorism.

In another development, Iran's Deputy Foreign Minister for Legal and Parliamentary Affairs Mohammad Javad Zarif and Mayor in Paris Friday called for cooperation between UNESCO and the Organization of the Islamic Conference (OIC).

The two officials welcomed the agreements reached between UNESCO and the Organization of the Islamic Conference.

Praising Iran's ancient culture and civilization, Mayar said that President Mohammad Khatami's proposal on dialog among civilizations has been welcomed by international scientific and culture.
