Russia ready to promote anti-narcotic cooperation with Iran

TEHRAN - Russian Interior Minister Sergei Stepashin on Tuesday said Moscow is ready to promote its cooperation with Iran regarding anti-narcotic campaign.

He made the remark in a meeting with Iran's Ambassador to Moscow, Mehdi Safari.

Calling for finalization of an agreement between the two countries for anti-drug campaign, Stepashin hoped that during the upcoming visit to Moscow of Iran's Interior Minister Mousavi Lari, the necessary document would be signed, IRNA reported from Moscow.

Italian president:

Promotion of Tehran-Rome relations consolidates Intl. cooperation

TEHRAN - Italian President Oscar Luigi Scalfaro, Tuesday referring to Iran's outstanding situation in the Middle East and Italy's standing in Europe said these facts have provided a suitable ground for promotion of bilateral relations.

Scalfaro, meeting with the visiting Iranian Parliament Speaker Ali Akbar Nateq-Nouri, underlined expansion of Tehran-Rome relations in different aspects.

Referring to the commonalities of divine religions, the Italian president said that contacts between Iran and Italy will pave the way for further international cooperation, IRNA reported.

Scalfaro also alluding to the current crises in the world said that settlement of these crises requires worldwide cooperation within the framework of international law.

Nateq Nouri said dialog between Islam and Christianity is a need of contemporary world and that such dialog will not only boost mutual understanding but also disarm those who want to sow discord among the followers of these religions.

The speaker also touched on the Afghan crisis and the status quo in Afghanistan saying that Iran opposes outrage of violation in the region.

He further blamed continuation of the violence and carnage in Afghanistan on the international community's inability to end the crimes being perpetrated by Afghan Taliban militia.

Had the international for taken effective measure against the Serbs' massacring Muslims in Bosnia-Herzegovina, the world would not have witnessed such heinous crimes.

He further referred to the ancient civilizations of Rome and Iran and termed as good the trend of bilateral relations.

Nateq Nouri heading a parliamentary-political delegation, arrived in Rome on Sunday afternoon for a 3-day official visit at the invitation of his Italian counterpart Luciano Violante.

In another development, Nateq Nouri met with several other Italian officials and discussed with them issues of mutual interest.

In the first round of talks Nateq Nouri and Violante reviewed relations between parliaments of the two countries and explored ways of boosting Tehran-Rome relations.

The two speakers agreed on organizing a meeting among speakers of the four ancient countries of Iran, Italy, Greece and Egypt.

They also stressed the need to amend the structure of the United Nations Security Council and to combat drug trafficking, terrorism and organized crimes.

Emphasizing importance of Iran-Italy parliamentary relations, Violante proposed formation of a friendship commission composed of members of both parliaments who are familiar with the language and culture of the other country. The idea was welcomed by Nateq Nouri.

The Iranian speaker also met with the Rome Mayor, Francesco Rutelli.

Rutelli said Iran owes its international standing not only to its ancient and honorable past but also to its leading role in maintaining peace and stability in the world, the Middle East in particular.

Referring to cultural relations between the two countries, he said that Rome was honored to unveil a statue of Iran's renowned poet, Hakim Abolqasem Firdausi.

Meanwhile, Ansa reported on Tuesday, "the Speaker of the Islamic Consultative Assembly (parliament) held a meeting with the Italian Senate President Nicola Mancino."

At this meeting the two sides exchanged views on the issues of bilateral relations and international developments.

Both Mancino and Nateq Nouri stressed the need for reform in the United Nations system in order to promote its effectiveness and democracy.

The Iranian Parliament speaker and the Italian Senate president also discussed the significance of inter-parliamentary relations.

He said the agreement signed by the two countries can serve as a basis for good cooperation between Iranian and Bahraini labor ministries for exchange of expertise, creation of job opportunities and offering technical and vocational training, said a report by IRNA.

As for guaranteeing regional security, he said that Bahraini officials believe that security of the region should be preserved by regional countries themselves, adding that such an important task is possible only through expansion of relations and cooperation among the said states.

Expansion of cooperation among regional states would diminish presence of aliens broadened in all areas.
