UAE favors developed ties with neighboring Iran

TEHRAN - United Arab Emirates Crown Prince Sheikh Khalifa bin Zaid al-Nahayan said in Abu Dhabi that Iran is a neighboring Muslim country and the member states of the Persian Gulf Cooperation Council are trying to develop relations with Tehran on the basis of good neighborliness and cooperation. In an interview with a French magazine Arabe, reported by the UAE news agency Wam, Al-Nahayan assessed the recent Iranian stance towards the council, and said, "...we consider Iran as a Muslim country with which we have traditional ties," IRNA reported from Abu Dhabi.

"Of course Iran's directional moves towards the UAE should be the same as that of ours towards the Islamic Republic of Iran." The UAE crown prince went on to say that Iran's armaments issue is an internal affair, however his country desired an end to the arms race in the region. All countries in the region should take practical steps towards establishing security, peace and tranquility, stated Al-Nahayan.

Leader:

Islamic system strong, not to surrender to any power

TEHRAN - The Leader of the Islamic Revolution, Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, addressing a large number of visitors from various walks of the life here on Saturday said: "The most important tool for foreigners to rule over nations is to make them distrustful about their future and pessimistic in judging their present status... The success of the Iranian nation in ridding themselves from the claws of imperialism and the heavy and black domination of the world arrogance is owed to their return to their own culture. A nation that regains self-confidence, and values itself and its material and spiritual wealth will be hopeful about the future. That nation will not allow foreigners to dominate them," IRNA reported.

The Leader remarked that the happy and active revolution of the people of Iran has flowed Islamic blood in the veins of Muslim nations over the past 20 years, and even many non-Muslim nations have profited from the blessings of the Islamic Revolution. The oppressive arrogant powers that have been slapped on the face by the Islamic Revolution have always failed in their efforts for stopping the march of the people of Iran, the Leader stated.

they are still trying to make the central hub of this great Islamic movement, that is the people of Iran, hopeless and distrustful about their future and thereby stop the progress of the revolution," Ayatollah Khamenei said.

The Leader stressed that as long as the Iranian nation is committed to its religion and revolution, and to the path of Imam Khomeini and its slogans, and has set a clear future in front of itself there is no political, military and economic power in the world that can conquer this nation.

"The arrogant world powers are launching broad propaganda to make the people distrustful of their present existence, belittle the great achievements of the people of Iran, close their eyes to the great progress gained as the result of the revolution," the Leader stated.

The government administrators of the Islamic system are servants to the people, remarked the Leader, adding that the poisonous pens try to belittle these ideal and popular circumstances which is the gift of the grace of God and is indebted to all of the people and the valor of the youth. And this popular and religious government is the greatest enemy for the interests of the United States, and such a system is dangerous to foreigners and greedy powers.

"With such systems in the Islamic Iran, the United States cannot enter (our country), and all their tricks for incursions into the Islamic Iran has thus far been undone and will so be in the future too," Ayatollah Khamenei stated.

The Leader pointed out that those who have ideas and theories and have a place for offering their ideas and theories must know what they say and what they write, lest, as the result of foreign propaganda, they will speak in a manner as though there is a despotic atmosphere in this country.

"When despotism ruled in this country and had engulfed all aspects of the administration of the affairs of the people, the Americans and the Europeans did not protest. Their radios never spoke against that dictatorship and they also ignored the human rights and they implored God to keep the despotic monarchical system. At that time the mercenary writers whose voices are heard in and outside of Iran did not say a word," the Leader said.

"Today the environment in Iran is Islamic and popular. Today there is a popular and Islamic government in power, and the administrators are favorite personalities, and the verdict of the people and the ideas of the people and the rulings of God and the religion of God is dominating the country, while under these circumstances those who have fixed their eyes to the mouth of the enemy, and who have lent their ears to the propaganda of the enemy, repeat the same words of the enemy, and their rhetoric is of the type as though despotism and dictatorship dominated the atmosphere of the country," the Leader said.

Congratulating the people of Iran on the occasion of the day, the Leader said,

"all Muslim groups believe that the promised Mahdi who is of Prophet Mohammad's noble descent will rise to do justice and to revive the religion of God. Non-Muslims, too, believe in a brilliant future for the humanity. But the peculiarity of the faith of Shi'ite Muslims in that respect is that they know all his personal particulars and they know his parents, and they know his birth date."
