

Volume 29
Number Two

T ♦ H ♦ E
ALAN
REVIEW

Winter 2002

- | | | |
|----|--|--|
| 4 | The Holocaust Fiction of Carol Matas | Ed Sullivan |
| 7 | A Telephone Interview with Carol Matas | An Interview by
Ed Sullivan |
| 11 | Notes From Girl X: Anne Frank at the Millennium | Holli Levitsky |
| 16 | The Motherless Daughter: An Evolving
Archetype of Adolescent Literature | James Lovelace and
Laura Howell Smith |
| 21 | Reappearing Fathers, Reappearing Pasts: History, Gender, and Identity in Hamilton's Plain City and Myers' Somewhere in the Darkness | Laura Apol |
| 26 | Francesca Lia Block's Use of Enchantment:
Teenagers' Need for Magic in the Real World | Lois L. Warner |
| 31 | Clip and File YA Book Reviews | Jeff Kaplan, Editor |
| 39 | Using Fantasy Literature to Explore Gender Issues | Marsha M. Sprague and Lori Risher |
| 43 | Middle School Connection:
It's a Good Thing If You Get It | M. Linda Broughton |
| 46 | The Outsiders is Still "In": Why This Old Novel
Is So Popular with Teens, and Some Activities Students Enjoy | Lauren Groot
with Martha Story |
| 49 | Backwards in Time and Forward in Spirit:
Teaching Year of Impossible Goodbyes | Terry Martin
and Tracey Brown |
| 54 | Introducing My Students to My Friends in Young Adult Literature | Patricia L. Daniel |
| 57 | Mapping A History of Adolescence and Literature for Adolescents | Greg Hamilton |
| 63 | The Research Connection
Articles About Young Adult Literature | Ted Hipple |