Summary

Connie Moses is an exceptional person, a top performer and a true volunteer in every aspect of her life. She does far more each and everyday than her assigned duties. A small organization like the Air Force ROTC could not survive if not for her willingness to always do more than required. These requirements include staying longer and to jump in to whatever task that needs an extra set of hands.

She is selfless in the way she supports the cadets here at Virginia Tech. Connie is an informal mentor/mother away from home for over 230+ cadets. A day does not go by that someone does not stop by her office to ask for advice or just needing some support, and they are never turned away.

Connie epitomizes selfless service and excellence both on the job and in her private life. She donates her off work hours to her church, helping raise grandchildren, and numerous service organizations. She is never too busy to help! Connie Moses is a shining example of service to others. Her talents and incredible work ethics have paid dividends for the University and our nation's Air Force.
