NOMINATED BY: Byron Nichols, Power Plant Superintendent

VIRGINIA TECH HIRE DATE: December 5, 1988

SUMMARY

Billy Dudding has been with the Virginia Tech at the Power Plant for 20 years. During these many years of service, Billy has performed consistently above expectations in many areas and has performed his duties with a level of dedication which is rarely seen in today's workplace. He has progressed by advancing his skill and responsibility to become a crucial part in the function of the campus utility system. His efforts insure safe, efficient, and reliable plant production to meet the University's demand for energy for utility distribution. In his current position as Maintenance Superintendent, he oversees the scheduled and daily repairs to plant equipment including high speed pumps, steam turbines, air compressors, high pressure boilers, high pressure steam distribution, and auxiliary equipment. He is one of the "behind the scene" people who provides services to maintain critical university functions. He is highly respected by both supervision and subordinates alike.
