

Staff Employee of the Week

Rocky Miller

NAME: Rocky Miller

JOB TITLE: Project Inspector

HOME DEPARTMENT: University Planning, Design, and Construction

COLLEGE OR VP AREA: Vice President for Administrative Services

NOMINATED FOR: President's Award for Excellence

NOMINATED BY: Victoria Mouras

VIRGINIA TECH HIRE DATE: November 1, 1983

SUMMARY

As the university was struggling with building envelope issues, Rocky was part of a team that put forth tremendous efforts to determine issues and work to remediate constructability issues in regards to the envelope. His willingness, efforts, and team approach have helped the department successfully implement new methods of installing Hokie Stone. Rocky's outstanding performance and commitment to the numerous University construction projects with which he has been involved with over the years has resulted in the successful delivery of buildings. His consistent pursuit of excellence as part of the university's construction project management team makes him a huge asset within the department. He has successfully assisted in delivering four specific projects that have made a large impact in resolving the past issues of building envelope water penetration and Hokie Stone installation. Rocky has demonstrated a continued effort to ensure the university's buildings are constructed to meet the expectations of the university; especially with regards to the installation of the "Hokie Stone" and building envelope. His dedication to meeting the ever-changing demands of managing a construction project schedule and coordinating with the end users are evident as the department continues to deliver high-quality and very complex buildings. Rocky is a valuable member of the team and his construction experience, Hokie Stone knowledge, and performance is a benefit to the university.