

Staff Employee of the Week

Kimberly Raymond

Budget Manager Kimberly Raymond has worked for Virginia Tech for 27 years, 15 of which have been spent with the Department of Psychology. Raymond oversees the day-to-day transactions in all of the operating, salary, foundation, and sponsored program accounts of the Department.

“She is extremely competent in all aspects of project and data management and planning. Her promptness to any reasonable request, her dedication, her congeniality, and her ability to quickly solve any problem are marks of her talent, dedication, and personal characteristics,” said Richard Winett, professor and director.

As a result of Raymond’s accurate and timely work, the department’s books always balance, the vendors are paid on time, and the faculty avoids potential problems with their sponsored programs accounts.

She is also well known for her perseverance in assisting faculty with spur of the moment grant-related situations.

“The excellence is not only found in the accuracy and timeliness of her work, but also in her dedication to helping all of us, and in the pride she takes in her job,” said Robert Stephens, professor and department chair.

According to Martha Ann Bell, Raymond’s dedication to her job is outstanding, as she has been known to work from home after regular office hours, as well as on the weekends. She has enhanced the scientific productivity of all of the Psychology faculty, as well as faculty in other departments.
